

Evolution of TC 2026

S O F I A J U N E , 2 - 3

Welcome to Evolution of TC, our annual conference for technical communicators in Bulgaria. Held in Sofia, it complements the growing community of technical communication events in Southeastern Europe, bringing together professionals to explore innovations in software documentation.

Conference Topic

Software Documentation Uncovered shows why effective technical communication is essential.

Innovations in AI and automation, user-focused content design and UX, comprehensive globalization and localization strategies, and strong leadership and project management practices together ensure clear, usable documentation. This enhances product adoption and customer satisfaction.

Target Audience

At Evolution of TC 2026, we expect an international audience from a broad range of professional backgrounds. These include technical communicators, information developers, information architects, technical translators, knowledge managers, product managers, consultants and related roles.

Why You Should Become a Sponsor

As a sponsor, your brand gains visibility among industry leaders, innovators, and decision-makers who actively influence tools, processes, and standards in technical communication. Your company will be positioned at the forefront of innovation, knowledge sharing, and the ongoing evolution of the TC profession. Sponsoring Evolution of TC is more than brand exposure – it is a statement of commitment to professional growth, community building, and excellence in technical communication. Through our comprehensive marketing and communication activities, your brand will be visible before, during, and after the event, reaching a broad and engaged international audience. We offer a range of flexible sponsorship packages designed to meet different marketing goals and levels of involvement. Discover the package that best fits your strategy and become part of the Evolution of TC.
